Towns: The Status of Women as a Standard of "Civilization" 685 The remainder of the article proceeds in three sections. It begins by presenting evidence to support the claim that the political exclusion of women had become a standard of the society of civilized states by the end of the 19th century.

The Status of Women as a Standard of "Civilization"

Women need not be made subservient to men because of love or lust. However, Wollstonecraft proposes that a woman's capacity for virtue is inferior to a man's capacity for virtue.
