One of the defining features of the neo-liberal era has been the buildup of private debt, particularly household debt. The banks and policy makers all assured us that this was fine because wealth was being built with the debt until, of course, it came tumbling down for many as a result of the GFC.

Australia's household debt problem is not new " it is a

Right, but you're talking zero standing charges, so I presume I don't have to pay it? That's right. In 2016, Ofgem removed the requirement for tariffs to have a standing charge following recommendations by the Competition and Markets Authority.

I finally had some time to read George Selgin's excellent Floored! over the Christmas holiday. Some family members saw me reading the book and asked me what it was about. The subject that George is tacklingâ€™™two types of central bank operating systemsâ€™™ is quite technical, so I wasn't sure how to break it down for them.
